Enchanting place. The old palace rooms have retained their charm and the room size is quite good. It's a good place for a family outing or a halt onwards. The staff is courteous and helpful. The gardens are truly well kept and designed very well. I recommend the garden view rooms.

On way back from Abu, we stopped for tea and snacks @ Balaram Palace where I have already stayed couple of times with friends and family for a good and enchanting experience. The place is isolated from chores of the city noises. Great hospitality and lovely food. Cooperative staff and amazing interior. Should visit place

Stayed for two nights about a fortnight back. The location is idyllic - tucked away from Palanpur city, in the Aravallis. Lots of surrounding greenery overlooking a mountain stream flowing down on the front side. The resort is replete with lawns, gardens and large trees. The palace building is in a good state of maintenance. The Begum suite I stayed in was spacious with a sit-out facing the gardens. The food was tasty and moderately priced. There's a helipad. People were seen playing cricket. Lots of playful monkeys. Lots of munias found nesting communally on a Christmas tree. A good place for a weekend with family and friends.

Baram Palace Resort, once the hunting retreat of the Lohani Nawab of Palanpur, is now a Heritage Classic hotel. It was built between 1922-1936 by the 29th ruler of Palanpur, His Highness Zubd-ul-Mulk Dewan Mahakhan Nawab Sir Taley Muhammad Khan Lohani. It is a graceful manifestation of neo-classical and baroque architectural style. Situated amidst the Aravallis in the 542 sq. kms of BaramAmbaji Reserve Forest at the tip of North Gujarat it borders Rajasthan. The palace is set in 13 acres of terraced upland rising from a hilly stream and surrounded by lush green gardens and designed flower beds. The Palace was visited by several dignitaries during the British Raj, including Lord Mountbatten.

A stay in the Palace takes the tourist into the bygone period to experience the real Nawabi ambience and architecture of northern Gujarat. The palatial rooms with antiques all around give a sense of royalty. The hunting point existed a century back. Everything around is picturesque and nature is at its best
